

MEDIA RELEASE

Monday 2 August 2010

ADAM GILCHRIST VISITS CASTLE HILL

Adam Gilchrist visited Castle Hill over the weekend to hand over a $20,000 cheque to a local charity.

The donation was made to Freedom Wheels, a charitable initiative which modifies bikes for children with disabilities.

Adam was thrilled with the chance to make the donation "Freedom Wheels is an excellent charity, it's great to see the happiness the simple joy of riding a bike can bring to these children" said Gilchrist.

Castle Hill based Amway made the donation after Gilchrist's great performance in the Indian Premier League.

"I love the warm welcome I receive whenever I visit Castle Hill," said Gilchrist.

Amway's General Manager Michial Coldwell was delighted with the result "Adam is a great cricketer and a great guy. We're delighted to welcome Gilly back to Castle Hill and support a fantastic charity," said Michial.

Gilchrist is the Nutriway Ambassador, the world's leading brand of vitamins, minerals and dietary supplements exclusively distributed by Amway.

Amway has been operating in Castle Hill for over 30 years and has donated over $500,000 to Freedom Wheels to help disabled children ride a bike for the first time.

Media contact: Kevin Lowe (Amway Australia) 0431 779 783

About Amway: Amway is one of the largest direct selling companies in the world, with sales of $US8.4 billion and 13,000 employees. Locally, there are more than 100,000 Amway Independent Business Owners in Australia and New Zealand.